1[st] Announcement

The transformation of innovations in road construction for the future reflects the current need to systematically transfer new knowledge, technologies and innovative approaches into practice so that road infrastructure can respond to social, environmental and technological requirements. Its aim is to point out the necessity of research, development and implementation with an emphasis on sustainability, efficiency and quality of transport structures.

The traditional professional event has built a solid and significant position in professional circles over more than 30 years of its existence. It is a place for the exchange of knowledge and experience between experts from practice, scientific institutions and academia, while pointing out the interconnection of theoretical and practical approaches in road construction. The organizers place special emphasis on supporting education in the field of transport, which is among the deficient, strategically important sectors.

We invite you to actively participate and look forward to meeting you!
